

Governing cities in Africa: Politics and Policies

Editors:

Simon Bekker, Sociologist, University of Stellenbosch, South Africa

Laurent Fourchard, Historian, Centre for African Studies, Bordeaux, France.

Contents

Introduction Simon Bekker and Laurent Fourchard

Part I Party Politics and the Politics of Identity

Chapter 1 – Exploring the role of party politics in the governance of African cities

Claire Benit-Gbaffou, Alain Dubresson, Laurent Fourchard, Karine Ginisty, Sylvie Jaglin, Ayodeji Olukoju, Sam Owuor and Jeanne Vivet

Chapter 2 – Urban planning, housing, and the making of ‘responsible citizens’

Séverine Awenengo, Hélène Charton, and Odile Goerg

Chapter 3 – Changing minority identities in urban Africa

Jeanne Vivet, Denise Brégand, Rasheed Olaniyi and Amandine Spire

Part II Urban Public Policies: Problematising Informality

Chapter 4 – Breaking down the binary: meanings of informal settlement in southern African Cities

Liela Groenewald, Marie Huchzermeyer, Kristen Kornienko, Marius Tredoux, Margot Rubin and Isabel Raposo

Chapter 5 – The politics of solid waste management in Accra, Addis Ababa, Maputo and Ouagadougou: different cities, similar issues

Axel Baudouin, Camilla Bjerkli, Hélène Quénot-Suarez and Jeremy Grest

Chapter 6 – Informality, public space and urban governance: an approach through street trading

S. Didier, M. Morange, M. Rubin and J.-F. Steck

Chapter 7 – Contested social orders: negotiating urban security in Nigeria and South Africa

Julie Berg, Rufus Akinyele, Laurent Fourchard, Kees van der Waal and Michellene Williams

Appendix – City profiles